Home-Based Chat Agent – Flexible Support Role Without Degree or Experience

Description

Opportunity Snapshot

A rapidly scaling direct-to-consumer lifestyle brand is onboarding new Home-Based Chat Agents to support their growing online customer base. If you're someone who prefers typing to talking, seeks a quiet work-from-home job, and wants to get started without the burden of traditional qualifications, this is your chance. No degree? No experience? No problem. Full training is provided, and you'll be supported every step of the way.

Your Main Duties

Real-Time Text Support

Handle customer questions as they arrive through a live messaging dashboard. You'll assist shoppers with placing orders, answering basic product questions, and resolving general concerns—all via text.

Use Company-Provided Templates

No need to craft replies from scratch. You'll be working with customizable scripts and suggested responses for virtually every situation. As you gain comfort, you'll adapt and personalize messages with confidence.

Flag and Route Specialized Issues

Technical problems, payment complications, or order cancellations will be escalated through the click-to-escalate system. You'll only be expected to handle issues you've been trained on.

Document Conversations

At the end of each chat, select a category tag (from a dropdown) and leave a short internal note. This ensures continuity if the customer returns or is escalated later.

What a Shift Looks Like

- Log into the chat portal and begin receiving conversations in queue
- Manage one or more chats at a time, depending on volume
