A Look Inside a Shift

You log in at 9:00 AM and check the queue—your first customer needs help locating their previous orders. You confirm their email and provide the history link. Next up is a user confused by how to activate a new plan—you send them the onboarding guide and track the click. You resolve 11 chats before a 15-minute break, then finish your session with three more conversations focused on coupon eligibility and shipping timelines. You sign off at 12:30 PM having resolved every ticket on your list.
