Online Customer Chat Agent – Remote Role, No Experience Required

Description

Position Summary

Our client, a leading provider of digital health and wellness subscriptions, is hiring Online Customer Chat Agents to assist with real-time website support. This fully remote position requires no previous experience and no college degree. If you're detail-oriented, comfortable with typing, and looking for a reliable work-from-home opportunity, this entry-level position offers the ideal path into the growing world of remote work.

This is not a phone job. All communication takes place through a secure live chat interface, where you'll respond to customer questions, resolve basic issues, and guide users through their online experience. Training is paid, hours are flexible, and you'll be supported by a team of supervisors and automated tools that help simplify every interaction.

What You'll Be Doing

Responding to Website Chat Inquiries

You'll use a live chat interface to respond to customers browsing the website. Most inquiries involve account access, order tracking, subscription details, or general product questions. All responses are provided in text format—no voice or video is required.

Following Prewritten Scripts and Prompts

You'll use a comprehensive library of templated answers and quick replies to handle most chats efficiently. This ensures consistent tone and accuracy across all responses.

Identifying and Escalating Complex Issues

When a question goes beyond basic troubleshooting, you'll route the inquiry to a senior agent or specialist. You'll never be expected to resolve tech errors, payment disputes, or policy exceptions on your own.
