About the Company

A digital education and productivity platform with thousands of subscribers is hiring for remote chat assistant jobs no degree required. With a remote-first culture and no reliance on phone-based support, this company delivers real, calm service through chat and email only. They're expanding their team to handle increased user volume across multiple time zones and product lines.

Position Overview

If you're searching for remote chat assistant jobs no degree, this is a legitimate opportunity to support real customers, build real work-from-home experience, and earn consistent weekly pay—all without a college degree or phone calls. You'll guide users through account issues, billing adjustments, and feature support using prewritten templates and a user-friendly dashboard.

Key Responsibilities

- Respond to customer questions through chat and email channels
- Help users update their accounts, reset passwords, manage subscriptions, and apply promotions
- Use templated workflows to respond clearly, consistently, and on-brand
- Escalate complex or technical requests to specialized teams
- Keep detailed, accurate case notes and tag each conversation properly
- Maintain a patient, friendly tone across all written communication

Why You'll Love This Job

- No degree required—onboarding and tools provided
- No phone calls or meetings—written support only
- Weekly pay and consistent hours
- Work from home, the library, or anywhere with solid internet
- Schedule your shifts around your real life

Minimum Requirements

- Laptop or desktop with Chrome browser
- Reliable internet connection (10 Mbps or higher)
