Remote Jobs in Marketing – Entry-Level Chat Support Role (No Experience Needed)

Description

Position Summary

Searching for remote jobs in marketing that offer flexibility, skill-building, and a foot in the door—without needing a degree or background in the field? This entry-level chat support position gives you hands-on experience with real-time customer messaging, brand communication, and soft sales—all while working from home. It's ideal for anyone looking to break into digital marketing, ecommerce, or customer engagement roles remotely.

In this fully remote role, you'll respond to live customer messages, help with basic product support, and assist with promotional outreach using prewritten scripts. The best part? No phone calls, no hard selling, and no prior experience required. If you're exploring marketing as a career path or looking for a way to build portfolio-worthy remote work skills, this is a great place to start.

About the Role

You'll work as a live chat assistant supporting ecommerce, SaaS, and digital brands. Your daily tasks involve helping customers understand product benefits, sharing discount codes, answering pre-purchase questions, and guiding visitors toward conversion goals—all key elements of digital marketing support.

Think of it as real-time messaging aligned with marketing objectives. While you're not creating ad campaigns, you're directly influencing conversion rates, engagement, and customer satisfaction—all of which are critical to a company's marketing success. And you'll do it using templates and dashboards that make it easy, even for beginners.

Key Responsibilities

Live Chat Engagement

- Respond to inbound chats on websites and social media platforms
- Use messaging templates to answer common questions about products or services
- Assist with real-time conversations to support conversion goals

Promotional Support

- Send discount codes and campaign links to interested customers
- Answer FAQs related to seasonal offers or product bundles
- Track which promos customers respond to and report patterns to your team

Content & Brand Communication

- Ensure all customer messaging follows brand tone and guidelines
- Log feedback and objections to improve future marketing messaging
- Share customer insights with content, marketing, or product teams

Daily Workflow

Morning

You begin your shift by logging into your dashboard and reviewing any customer follow-ups or promotional updates. You start responding to chats from customers exploring landing pages, asking about a new product, or requesting a coupon.

Afternoon

You may handle 15–25 chats throughout your day, depending on demand. Some involve soft selling—explaining how a product solves a specific problem. Others are purely support: guiding users through a signup form or helping them navigate the checkout page.

Evening

Wrap up by logging key metrics—number of chats completed, positive feedback, and recurring objections. You may also share insights that help shape future marketing offers or FAQ improvements.
