Description

You Don't Need a Diploma to Get Hired. Just a Keyboard, Internet, and the Drive to Start Something Real.

Let's be honest—most “entry-level” job listings still ask for a degree, even when the work doesn't require one. If you're searching for “work from home jobs no degree,” you're looking for something real. This is it. We're hiring Remote Live Chat Representatives to support customers through text-based conversations—no phones, no degrees, no experience required. You'll earn $25-$35/hour, work on your schedule, and finally get paid for what you bring to the table—not what's missing from your résumé.

What You'll Be Doing

You'll answer questions from customers using a live chat platform. Typical topics include password resets, order lookups, billing adjustments, and general account help. You'll follow help articles and use saved replies to keep responses fast and helpful. All communication is written. You'll never need to speak on the phone or join a video call.
